BIRD-FEEDING HOBBY PAYS OFF-C. R. Likins, almost 75 years old, retired in 1950 as an aircraft inspector and has since parlayed his hobby into a new business—building "scientific" bird feeders. He's shown above inspecting some of his colorful "restaurants" in his Cleveland, Ohio, workshop. In action now from Canada to Texas, Likins' feeders consist of citrus, tomato juice, pickle and lard cans for containers and cut-up coat hangers for "working parts." Metal "cone" awnings protect birds from the rain. His feeders hold from a pint to as much as 50 pounds of food. He says hirds he feeds eat up to 40 pounds of food a week.

But Christmas is more than the celebration of this event which happened long ago and far away. It is a present reality.

Through the eyes of faith we see ourselves kneeling before the manger. We have come to adore our new-born King.

Through the wonder of faith, the Christmas story becomes alive. The Christ Child is born in our hearts. The angels speak to us:

"Behold I bring you tidings of great joy . . . For unto you is born this day in the City of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord!'

Our Bethlehem today is our Church and Sunday School. Let us go and take our children to worship our new-born King.

Welcome Young Holiday Visitors

Wise Hostess Welcomes Them as Warmly as Older Guests

BY KAY SHERWOOD NEA Staff Writer

The most popular hostess of the Christmas season — at least with parents and their small fry-is the warm-hearted woman who greets the youngest guest as enthusiastically as the older ones.

Especially during the holidays, when baby sitters are as scarce as taxicabs on a rainy day, the informal afternoon calls that are a By Galbraith large part of the seasonal fun must made with the little ones in tow.

> Although their own children are grown, many of the most gracious hostesses I've known have not lost their relaxed touch with the small fry. The result is a reduction of the bored and restless misbehavior which makes even a short visit a strain and reduces conversation to a nervous "Behave yourself, Susie.'

> Every hostess has her own special time-tested tricks for 'welcoming the mixed-age groups. But there are some common pointers. One hostess knowing the youngsters' uninhibited delight in surprises keeps a tiny treat ready to hand each child on his departure.

This may be a gingerbread boy cookie or a tiny, wrapped gift of the five or ten-cent variety. Sometimes the little gift is tied on the tree, or the youngsters are invited to dip into a grab box.

One of the novel grab boxes I have seen fixed up for this year simulates a chimney into which Santa has emptied his pack. It's simply made from a cardboard carton covered with self-adhesive vinyl plastic in a red-brick pattern.

WASHINGTON (A)-Sen. Spark-1956 elections, but "doesn't care" how much red ink spending there

He referred in an interview to administration proposals for a billion-dollar boost in military outlavs, a 200-million-dollar increase in foreign aid spending, and increased funds for health, schools and roads.

He said he sees no way those administration goals can be accomplished without incurring a deficit in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1957, and added:

"All of these proposals the administration has been making recently will not affect the budget for the current year (ending June 30). They want to balance the budget then for political purposes and they don't care how much they spend after that."

Sparkman, a Senate Foreign Relations committeeman, mentioned also an administration request for $4,900,000,000 in new appropriations for foreign aid - about half a billion dollars of which would go into reserve for spending in future

He said this indicates "they plan to leave us Democrats with a lot of COD (cash on delivery) orders when we get back in the White House in 1957.

"When the Republicans came in in 1953, President Eisenhower and others complained about the large carryover of military and foreign aid funds," Sparkman said. "They said they couldn't balance the budget because of all the CODs left by the Democrats.

"Now the Republicans have used up the fat from these carryover funds and they are going to have to come in with some CODs of their

Sparkman said he isn't ready to pass judgment on the foreign aid program until the administration spells out details of its plans. But he said he thinks economic aid should be pointed toward technical assistance which he said is "relatively inexpensive."

A subject that seems to give doctors the universal willies is that of teen-agers' weight - losing diets. They are wild, out-of-proportion and damaging to the health.

This, of course, doesn't include the doctor's prescribed diets for weight and skin conditions or gland

Teen-agers do need a relatively nigher-caloried diet than their elders. Many of them are still growing and all of them are undergoing oddily changes that eat up the energy. All teen-agers seem to live energetic lives.

But a teener puts herself on a diet and first cuts out milk, potatoes, all fats and bread. She loses the calcium she needs for her eeth; she loses the vegetables she needs for her skin; she loses the small amount of fat that gives her nair luster and she loses the wheat elements she needs for her reproductive system.

This can't go on for long without a loss of looks far more serious han the five extra pounds.

If a teener is looking for a diet he can go on without her doctor's approval, let her cut out the worthess calories: soda pop, peanuts. jelly doughnuts, breakfast buns, massive second helpings, chocoate. No mother and no doctor could complain about this.
